BILL SENT TO THE PUBLIC PRINTER

Payne Tariff Measure Ready to Come Before Senate.

WILL EXPLAIN ITS PROVISIONS

Chairman Aldrich Will Tell the Senate What the Bill Is Expected to Do. Many Important Items Are to Be Submitted to the Judgment of the Senate Without Recommendation. Free List Lengthened.

Washington, April 12.—The Payne tariff bill, as amended by the senate committee on finance, was sent to the public printer late Sunday night and will be ready for presentation to the full committee today.

An effort will be made to induce the minority to consent to the reporting of the bill to the senate today, in which event it will be allowed to go over until Thursday, when Chairman Aldrich will make a detailed explanation of its provisions. It is probable that he will be followed by Senator Daniel, ranking Democratic member, who will outline the position minority members expect to assume.

Senate leaders would not predict how much time is likely to be occupied in discussion of the portion of the bill fixing rates of duty. A large number of important items are to be submitted to the judgment of the senate without recommendation, the purpose being to convince the senate and the country that the committee has not arbitrarily assumed the power to make a tariff bill, and that it recognizes the right of members of congress not on the tariff framing committee to help to shape the tariff bill so far as the controversy schedules are concerned.

Members of the finance committee have discussed their proceedings with greater freedom than ever before in the history of tariff legislation. Senator Aldrich asserted that 75 per cent of articles used by all the people had been reduced and that the free list had been lengthened to an extent that would be surprising to everybody. Members of the committee have done their best to make their recommendations popular and they predict that their efforts would be appreciated.

Duties on Luxuries Increased.

In placing a large number of articles on the free list and in reducing duties on many others it has been found necessary to increase materially duties on many luxuries in order to produce necessary revenues. The Payne bill increased materially the rates on brandy, alcohol, gin, grain, spirits, cordials and liquors, but made practically no increase on champagnes and still wines. The senate committee has decided upon an increase amounting to about 25 per cent above existing rates on wines of all kinds and has made increases above the Payne bill on other spirits.

No announcement was made as to the amount of additional revenue which these increases will produce. A number of other articles regarded as luxuries have been increased and tariff experts feel confident that the bill will produce as much revenue as is needed. All of the increases on perfumes and toilet articles provided by the Payne bill will be reported.

In addition to placing tea and coffee on the free list, the committee proposes to admit cocoa free. An especial effort was made to reduce rates on the so-called "breakfast table" articles of commerce. It was reported that another effort would be made to have a duty placed on coffee in the senate in behalf of the coffee syndicate, which is alleged to have a large number of bags of Brazilian product hoarded in this country.

At a meeting of the committee it was decided to add coal to the list of subjects on which the advice of the senate, without recommendation, is to be asked. This means that instead of striking out the reciprocity clause and fixing a duty of 40 cents a ton on bituminous coal, as heretofore decided, the Payne rates will be reported without recommendation.

Duty to Be Decreased

The expectation of the committee is that the reciprocity clause will go out, however; that the duty will be decreased to about 40 cent and that the rate of 15 cents per ton on slack coal will be maintained.

The senate stands about two to one against free lumber, and its advocates now fear that they will not be able to maintain the reduction agreed upon by the house. The fight which will be made on the floor for free hides has begun and an effort is being made to line up the members. Western senators are confident a duty will be placed on hides, but they are not sanguine of maintaining the existing 15 per cent ad valorem.

Tobacco interests failed in their efforts to induce the committee to reduce the amount of Philippine tobacco to be admitted annually free of duty and to get an increase in the rates on tobacco from other countries. The recommended rates on lithographing, including post cards and cigar labels, as contained in the Payne bill, will be reported. The Payne rates on pottery and fine china have been agreed to in spite of the demands of American manufacturers, supported by speeches made by President Taft in his campaign, that further protection is needed by them for such of their wares as come into competition with Haviland and Limoges china.

The senate committee will provide ample protection for American manufacturers of watch dials. All except two of the American factories are said to have been driven out of business by the competition with dials made abroad, chiefly in Switzerland. No attention was paid by the senate committee to the so-called oil "joker" in the Payne bill as it passed the house. Petroleum and its products are among the articles which are to be reported to the senate without recommendation.

SCHOOL LADS PULL TRIGGERS

Begin Firing in National Interschool Rifle Shooting Competition.

Washington, April 12.—Boys in public and private schools throughout the country in which interest is taken in rifle shooting began firing today in the first interschool rifle shooting competition of a national character ever held in this country under the auspices of the National Rifle association.

The prize will be the gallery championship of the United States for 1909, the trophy being the Astor trophy recently presented by Colonel John Jacob Astor of New York. This will be kept in competition for twenty years, at the end of which time it is to be presented to the school whose team has won it the greatest number of times.

EMMA GOLDMAN IN NEW YORK

Noted Anarchist Talks to a Large and Enthusiastic Audience.

New York, April 12.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist, addressed a large and enthusiastic audience of her followers at Lyric hall here. Her subject was "The Psychology of Violence." Miss Goldman's remarks were entirely temperate and the meeting was orderly. There was no interference by the police, although many plain clothes men and uniformed policemen were present.

Miss Goldman denied statements of "lying newspapers" that she is responsible for acts of violence committed by over zealous anarchists.

"These people," she said, "are good, whole-souled people who are driven to acts of violence only after they have seen the sufferings of humanity."

She told her auditors that many persons, knowing her to be opposed to violence, had asked her why she did not renounce those of her cult who advocated resorting to forcible means of impressing upon "tyrannical rule" their determination to improve the lot of man.

"I cannot condemn these people," she said. "They are merely human beings who have convinced themselves, through their own psychology, that it is their duty to help their fellow man, even at the cost of human life."

Miss Goldman made no allusion to the cancellation of her citizenship. She will speak next Sunday on "The Hypocrisy of Puritanism."

CASTRO MAKES FORMAL PROTEST

He Objects to Being Deported From Martinique.

INTERNATIONAL LAW VIOLATED

Claims That His Expulsion From French Territory Is a Denial of the Rights of Individuals—Removal of the Former President of Venezuela From the Hotel to the Steamer a Pitiful Sight.

Fort de France, Martinique, April 12.—Prior to being taken aboard the steamer Versailles for deportation to France, ex-President Castro of Venezuela prepared a written protest against the action of the French government, which has been submitted to the authorities here. It reads as follows:

"I hereby protest against the action of the French authorities of Martinique in having me put by force on board an outgoing vessel: First, because I was ill at the time, and because the act imperilled my life; second, because I have committed no offense against the government of France and the authorities of Martinique in the time that I was permitted to remain on that island; and, finally, because the decree of expulsion which orders my deportation out of French territory compels me to take passage aboard a vessel which will again land me on French territory."

"Moreover, these considerations aside, the case constitutes a breach of international law and a denial of the rights of individuals. That such a thing should have come to pass in the land which saw the birth of Josephine and from which came the inspiration and presage of liberty, and at the hands of a people who shed their blood by torrents hardly a century ago to maintain unimpaired the rights and prerogatives of man, is inconceivable."

The ex-president said just before sailing that if he was at liberty when he arrived at St. Nizaire he would immediately proceed to Spain to take passage for Santa Cruz, Tenerife. General Castro said that he was leaving his brother Carmelo here to receive mail which he expects to be forwarded from Trinidad and Venezuela.

Castro's Friends Disappointed.

The vessel will stop at Basse Terre and Point a Pitre, Guadeloupe. Hardly had the steamer left port when a party of Castro's friends arrived on the steamer Golette from Saint Lucia. They were very much surprised that Castro had been expelled from the island and had a long consultation with Castro's brother.

The removal of the former president of Venezuela from the hotel to the steamer was not without its pitiful aspects. Immediately on the announcement by the medical commission, who made a lengthy physical examination of Castro, that he was quite capable of making the voyage, the commissary of police with an escort of gendarmes invaded the hotel and proceeded to his chamber. They found the ex-president lying in bed and although he still protested that he could not move they carried him down stairs on a mattress, the patient all the while moaning dismally, and placed him on a stretcher. Officers of the United States cruiser North Carolina, in civilian dress, helped to make him as comfortable as possible, and then the stretcher was carried by four negroes to the dock. Gendarmes guarded it on either side and a crowd of persons numbering fully 2,000 followed the procession through the streets.

The entrance to the French line piers was guarded by police, and no one was permitted to enter, except those directly connected with the transference of the ex-president. Some difficulty was experienced in hoisting the litter aboard and for a moment Castro was in peril of falling out. The stretcher was set down in one of the cabins and Castro at once declared that the room was too small and demanded that he be transferred to another cabin. He was promised that a change would be made in the course of the voyage. In saying farewell to his brother, he waved his hand and exclaimed: "Good-bye for the moment."

Mississippi Negro Lynched.

Yazoo City, Miss., April 12.—After besting an officer who was attempting to take him into custody and firing on a posse which later captured him, Howard Montgomery, a negro, was placed in the Yazoo City jail charged with having violated a labor contract. An hour later a mob formed, overpowered the jailer and hanged the negro.

PROPERTY LOSS ALSO HEAVY

Four Business Blocks, Two Dwellings and Two Other Structures Destroyed by Fire—Fortunate Shift of the Wind Saved the Public Library and the Curtis Hotel, in Which Were Several Easter Parties.

Lenox, Mass., April 12.—Six persons lost their lives, three others were badly burned and a property loss of between $200,000 and $300,000 was caused by a fire in the heart of the business section of this town.

Four business blocks, two dwellings and two other structures were destroyed in a section bounded by Franklin, Main, Housatonic and Church streets.

The fire is believed to have started in the Clifford building from spontaneous combustion. The dead are:

Edward C. Ventres, electrician; Mrs. Edward C. Ventres; Miss Leslie Ventres, aged twelve years; Miss Alice French, bookkeeper; Miss Isabel Cook, bookkeeper; Miss Mary Sparks, school teacher.

The injured are Mrs. Catherine Root and her two sons, George and Arthur, severely burned.

A fortunate shift of the wind saved the public library and the Curtis hotel, in which were several Easter parties from New York and Boston.

The loss of life occurred in the Clifford building, where the blaze started, and resulted primarily from a series of explosions of turpentine, paints, oils and dynamite stored in the cellar.

When the fire in the Clifford block was at its height Miss Alice French was seen to climb out of a flame-filled room onto a veranda on the second story. Her night clothing and her hair were ablaze. She jumped to the sidewalk, landing within five or six feet of the blazing walls. Onlookers attempted to drag her out, but the heat drove them back.

Not until the flames had practically died out several hours later was the body recovered. The bodies of the other victims have not been found.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED

Striking the sharp curve near Bristol at a high rate of speed, the train left the track and ran nearly its own length on the ties before coming to a stop. The engine turned completely over, the baggage car was turned crosswise of the track and the mail car slid down the track to the edge of the river. A car of fresh fish in the train was also badly damaged. All of the cars in the train left the track with the exception of one sleeper, but no one was injured back of the day coaches.

None of the baggagemen or mail clerks was injured, although their cars received the brunt of the shock. The body of Fireman Johnson was found beside his engine in a pool of water, but the body of the engineer has not yet been recovered.

The seriously injured are: H. Hewitt, Quincy, Ill.; and John C. Coleman, Everett, Wash.

LEGISLATORS SEE HATCHERY SITE

Site of the Deerwood Fish Hatchery will Make a Handsome Park When Fixed Up

TWO DAMS ARE ALREADY IN It is Estimated it will Require $22,000 to Complete and Maintain Two Years

The party of legislators and others who made the rounds of the various fish hatcheries and proposed fish hatcheries of the state, was at Deerwood Saturday afternoon and evening. They left St. Paul Thursday night, spent most of Friday at Glenwood, went to Detroit that night and visited the proposed site of the hatchery which may be built there and passed through Brainerd on the afternoon train enroute to Deerwood. A representative of THE DISPATCH joined the party here and accompanied them to Deerwood where teams had been provided and they were driven to the hatchery site. The site comprises 40 acres and holds a beautiful little stream flowing from Portage to Hamlet lake, the stream being in a pleasant valley with rounded uplands, the latter being covered with birch, oak and other hard wood trees, besides poplars, etc. Two dams have been put in. One is at the upper end of the site, at the outlet of Portage lake and will be used to regulate the amount of water in the hatching ponds. The lower dam, which creates the artificial bass pond, is located about 20 rods from the east end of the tract. Just below that will be the pike hatching house, where the pike fry will be hatched in running water.

The fish commission asks for $22,000 with which to complete the hatchery and other buildings, purchase the necessary equipment and maintain the hatchery for the next two years. It is the purpose to erect a superintendent's cottage, large double house for the employees, the pike hatching house, a barn, etc. When the work is completed the entire 40 acres will be a beautiful park surrounding the artificial lake.

After the return from the hatchery site the entire party was served supper in the large room of the "Glenwood" and the evening was spent in looking over the town and in the cars, the Soo sleeper "Gladstone" being used for sleeping accommodations for most of the party, which consisted of the following gentlemen.

O. J. Johnson, president fish and game commission; Carlos Avery, executive agent; S. F. Fullerton, superintendent of fisheries; Senators L. O. Cook, chairman committee on game and fish; R. W. F. rington and George Carpenter; Representatives Alvin Rowe, chairman committee on game and fish, L. D. Brown, Jos. Peters, Geo. Mackenzie, H. A. Bjorge, J. W. Wolhutter, W. E. Noble, Alex McNeil, J. A. Westcott, former Senator C. P. Reeves, of Glenwood; Gilbert Murphy, speaker's sargent, S. B. Huntley, postmaster of the house; Claude Mackenzie, clerk house judiciary committee and Messrs. Wm. Webster and W. E. Brown.

Members of the committees present express themselves as well pleased with the progress made and there is no doubt that the necessary appropriation will be granted. They also spoke favorably of the proposed fish hatchery at Deerwood, and said that it was especially well located as it would be easy to run a spur from the railroad directly into the grounds and save all expenses of hauling. This hatchery, like that at Deerwood will be for pike and bass only, the demand for fry being for the so-called food fishes rather than for the game fishes.

OLD SETTLER DEAD

James Parker Many Years a Resident of East Brainerd Passed Away Sunday Morning

James Parker, for nearly 30 years a resident of East Brainerd died Sunday morning of dropsy and other complications, after a long and painful illness. The funeral will take place at his late residence Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 and will be under the auspices of Aurora Lodge, No. 100, A. F. & A. M., of which he has long been a member. He was 72 years of age and leaves a widow but no children.

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion. H. P. Dunn.

THREE FIRES SATURDAY

Fire Department Was Called to Three Fires Within About as Many Hours--None Serious

The Brainerd fire department had a strenuous experience Saturday afternoon for a few hours. About 3 o'clock an alarm was sent in from Southeast Brainerd, where the residence of Herman Hall, at the corner of Norwood and Fourteenth streets, was in flames, as noted in Saturday's Dispatch. The building was damaged to the extent of $300 to $500 on the building, besides some damage to the contents, both fully covered by insurance. About 5:30 o'clock the boys were again called to Southeast Brainerd, this time to the meat market of Geo. Rappel, where a small blaze had been caused from the boiler. The damage does not exceed $25. While the department was yet there a still alarm was sent in for a chimney fire at Ed. Cullen's, but it was extinguished without damage.

During the spring every one would be benefited by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. It furnishes a needed tonic to the kidneys after the extra strain of winter, and it purifies the blood by stimulating the kidneys, and causing them to eliminate the impurities from it. Foley's Kidney Remedy imparts new life and vigor. Pleasant to take. H. P. Dunn.

A Strong Melodrama

The play bearing the odd and striking title, "Why Girls Leave Home" will be the attraction at the opera house on Friday, April 16. It is much better written than the majority of plays of its class and does not depend upon mechanical contrivances for its success. There is an intensely interesting story of the frailty of the weaker sex and a man's perfidy, told according to the adage that "Truth is stranger than fiction." The production is staged in an elaborate manner and a company of players, a majority of whom attained prominence, have been engaged to interpret the several characters in the drama.

People past middle life usually have some kidney or bladder disorder that saps the vitality, which is naturally lower in old age. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects urinary troubles, stimulates the kidneys, and restores strength and vigor. It cures uric acid troubles by strengthening the kidneys so they will strain out the uric acid that settles in the muscles and joints causing rheumatism. H. P. Dunn.

DEERWOOD EXTENSION

The men did not arrive here so far as could be learned, and it is believed that they are working in the vicinity of Deerwood, on the extension to tap the new iron ore field.

DISCUSS CENSUS MEASURE

Senators Argue on the Bill for Nearly Five Hours.

Washington, April 10.—During nearly five hours the bill providing for the thirteenth and subsequent censuses was under discussion in the senate. The measure had been amended since its original passage by congress in the last session when it was vetoed by President Roosevelt because of provisions allowing senators and representatives practically to select employees of the census for appointment. These features of the bill called forth a general discussion in the senate on the subject of civil service reform and the present operation of the law was denounced by several senators. As amended by the committee the bill placed appointments in the census under the civil service commission. The consideration of the bill had not been completed when the senate adjourned for the day.

RURAL MAIL ROUTES

The Department Demands That Roads be Put in Shape or Free Delivery Will be Withdrawn

The condition of the roads on the rural free delivery routes is an important matter to the patrons as it is practically the only requirement the government demands of those receiving this service, but in this connection it is imperative that the routes over which the rural carriers have to make daily trips must be put and kept in good condition. The government does not hesitate to state that service on routes where the patrons show no interest in road improvement will be withdrawn and Postmaster Ingersoll has received the communication printed below which shows that the necessary work to put the roads in good shape must be done or the delivery will be withdrawn. In addition to this communication the department has also notified the county commissioners that the matter must be attended to if the patrons expect to enjoy the benefits to be derived from the mail service. If the service is lost by the inattention of the road officials the patrons of the routes will only have themselves to blame, and once discontinued it will be a very difficult matter to have service resumed, as it was only with the understanding that roads be made passable at all seasons of the years that the service was first established. The letter to the postmaster is as follows:

The Postmaster, Brainerd, Minn.

Sir: The department has this day called the attention of road officials to the bad condition of roads on routes No. 1, 2 and 3 as indicated in report.

You will also take up the matter with the road officials and patrons interested, and inform them that unless all roads covered by the rural delivery from your office are properly repaired during the present summer season and placed in such condition that uninterrupted service can be rendered throughout the year, the withdrawal of rural delivery from neglected roads will very likely follow.

Failure to comply with this requirement should be reported in ample time to admit of consideration of amendments of routes before the beginning of winter. Very respectfully,

P. V. DEGRAW, Fourth Assistant P. M. General.

Kruse reports perfect satisfaction with results. The company has five drills at work on its location in 30-45-28 seeking a suitable location for the shaft there, it having been decided to abandon the one already started and sink one farther from a small lake, the water of which is bothering them greatly.

TRAGEDY ENDS HONEYMOON

Young Bride and Groom Found Dead in Their Room.

Portland, Me., April 12.—Samuel Kline, twenty-five years old, recently of New York, and his bride of three weeks, Ida Branz Kline, aged twenty-one years, were found lying dead from bullet wounds on the floor of their room here. While the coroner believes that it was a case of murder and suicide, he has not decided whether the man or the woman killed the other.

The last two weeks of the honeymoon had been unhappy, it is said. There had been quarrels over the fact that Mrs. Kline's inheritance from her father, who died six months ago, was smaller than Kline had supposed it was.

The warehouses were owned by Lewis & Gordon, Richard Waldrop, Sherril & Beartnet and the American Snuff company, respectively. These firms are independent and have been buying much loose tobacco. The loss will reach about $25,000. There was about 100 pounds of tobacco lost.

As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last).

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration), then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.

RESULT OF SUFFRAGE

Colorado Woman Tells How It Aids Cupid.

SAYS MARRIAGES INCREASE.

Men More Attentive and Women More Feminine With Right to Vote, Declares Dr. Mina McEachern—Suffrage's Aid to Laws.

Not less but more than formerly is the measure of a man's love for a woman after she has striven for and captured the right to vote.

Not less feminine, but better graced in the gentler arts of femininity, is the woman after she has acquired the ballot.

Such is the result of suffrage where it is practiced, on the word of one from the heart of woman's political stronghold. Dr. Mina McEachern spoke before the Political Equality league in Chicago the other afternoon.

"Women in Colorado wear a different expression in their faces from the unaltered look of earlier years," she said further. "They have a fuller, broader, more comprehending look, than before they began to take an active part in the management of the state's affairs."

She also asserted that women in the higher walks of life who formerly pursued independent careers had married in greater numbers since the dawn of the new era in state politics.

"Suffrage," she said, "has forever proved the contrary of the old belief that men do not care for sensible girls. But, if the movement has resulted in good for the women, how much more good has it done the men! You don't know how much good it does a man to treat a woman right."

One of the good results to women, as she sees it, is that more books on political economy have been sold in Colorado since suffrage was adopted. She argues that the women have bought them and that they have been reclaimed from the reading of light fiction.

She declares "that tired look and feeling" which mark women in other states are not due to actual exhaustion, but to being unoccupied and bored.

"What the women need is not rest," she asserted, "but mental occupation." Legal benefits also would accrue, in the opinion of the speaker, if suffrage became a fact.

"Women have not enough financial sense," she said, "to listen to the financial arguments in favor of the child labor law, and they would fight for it against all persuasion to the contrary."

They also would minimize what Dr. McEachern considers the demoralizing habit of treating. It has been greatly restricted in Denver. They also would see that the board of health had enough money and would cut the salaries of the aldermen before they would let this other body suffer.

Last and perhaps best, in the opinion of the speaker, suffrage would cure hysteria, the mania for clothes and for looking pretty, said by the speaker to possess womankind. Far from interfering with good housekeeping, she believes suffrage would promote it.

"She is of a very morose and blue disposition."
"Is her husband a drunkard?"
"No; a humorist."—Houston Post.

CONTEST IN THE SENATE

Indications Point to One Over Sugar Schedule in Tariff Bill.

Washington, April 9.—Indications point to a contest in the senate over the sugar schedule in the tariff bill, not only because of the proposed free admission of 300,000 tons annually from the Philippines, but because certain Democratic senators plan to open up the whole subject by introducing an amendment to remove the duty entirely from refined sugar.

So far as the report of the finance committee is concerned, beet sugar producers have little to fear, as the whole sugar schedule has been referred to a sub-committee of Messrs. Burrows, Smoot and Flint, representing the sugar producing states of Michigan, Utah and California. The American producers fear most an attempt in debate to bring the so-called sugar trust to the foreground as the Democratic senators threaten to do.

The Democratic ranks will be broken, however, as already the cane sugar states have lined up with the beet sugar states.

Most of the big contests over the tariff bill have been fought in the committees of the house and senate. The sugar question is proving different. It became known that Senator Clay of Georgia had prepared an amendment to the tariff bill that strikes out all differential duties, the effect of which is to admit refined sugar free. This amendment is said to have the endorsement of the minority members of the finance committee.

SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Murderers of Aged Iowa Man Are Sentenced.

Montezuma, Ia., April 9.—Phillip Martin and Jesse Finley, one the confessed murderer and the other implicated in the murder by the confession, were brought into the district court and were sentenced to life imprisonment at Fort Madison.

The sentencing of Martin was brought about by his own confession, which was made after he had been sent to prison to serve a sentence of thirty-five years for various crimes. Finley was convicted after a trial.

The men killed an aged reclus, T. W. Reed, four years ago, for the purpose of robbery. The old man was supposed to have a large sum of money hidden in the house. The murderers secured $400.

NOTABLE EXPLOITS OF PETROSINO.

New York's Famous Sleuth, Martyr to the Black Hand.

DARING AND SKILL RECALLED

Cases in Which He Proved Both in Great Emergencies—An Example of His Watchfulness—Desperate Fight With a Thief.

Joseph Petrosino, the detective lieutenant who was recently assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, was the head of what is known as the Italian squad of the New York police department and one of the principal organizers of it. He was the man most feared by Italian criminals classed under the name of Black Hand and was sent to Italy to carry out a plan which was suggested to Commissioner Bingham nearly a year ago by a special agent whom the commissioner had hired to propose ways and means of stemming the tide of Italian and Sicilian crime in New York city.

In person short and stocky, with broad shoulders and muscles like steel cords, Petrosino was physically equipped for the rough work which it often became necessary for him to do. He had more than a fighter's body. He had the mind of a student. In the hundreds of cases which he handled he had use more frequently for his trained brain than for his ready hands.

Joseph Petrosino was born in 1860 in the province of Salerno, in Italy. He came to the United States when he was a boy of fifteen years and started his New York career by selling newspapers at Broome street and the Bowery. He was graduated as a newsboy and became an employee of the Gale brothers, who then held a city contract as snow trimmers. Through this channel he drifted into the street cleaning squad. In those days the street cleaning was done under the jurisdiction of the police department, and so it came about that the young Italian came under the eagle eye of Inspector Alexander Williams, the original "czar of the Tenderloin" and the right arm of Inspector Thomas Byrnes. Inspector Williams lifted Petrosino out of the street cleaning squad and on Oct. 9, 1883, made him a member of the uniformed police force. He served in uniform until he became a regular member of the central detective bureau, in 1895, where he scored his most notable achievements.

It is difficult to select from the long list of cases Petrosino has handled those best showing his methods and instancing his success. The Brogno murder, at Baxter and Leonard streets, New York, in July, 1898, will perhaps serve as a good example. Natalo Brogno was found, unconscious, suffering from a stab wound in the back. Over him stood Angelo Carboni, who was in the act of kicking Brogno when the police arrived. It was learned that Brogno, Carboni and a man named Ceramello had quarreled in a saloon on Leonard street a while before, but Carboni was apparently the murderer. Indeed, the police, at his trial, testified that Brogno had identified him as his assailant, and Carboni was convicted and sentenced to death.

Petrosino was not satisfied, and this is what he did, related in his own words:

After the conviction—I hadn't had much to do with the case—I happened to hear of a boy and a watchman who had seen the fight. Some friends told me these two had admitted this. Their story was that Brogno had quarreled first with Ceramello, who was Carboni's father-in-law, but that Brogno first came to blows with Carboni. Brogno knocked Carboni down. As Brogno bent forward from the force of the blow Ceramello stole up behind him and stabbed him in the back. Ceramello then ran away. Carboni didn't see the stabbing, but got up as Brogno fell and was kicking him when the police came.

I couldn't get these witnesses to repeat their story, so I went to the district attorney, who said I'd better go into the case thoroughly. So I started out to get Ceramello. I got trace of him in Jersey City, but he got away ahead of me. I followed him to Philadelphia, then to Millerton, in Delaware, every time just too late. Next I heard he was in Montreal, so to Canada I went. In Montreal I heard Ceramello had gone to Nova Scotia. I missed him there, too, and followed his trail back to New York. There I lost all trace of him.

One day, nearly a month after I first went after Ceramello, I was standing at Elizabeth and Mott streets when I saw his cousin. He knew me, but he didn't see me. So I trailed him up to Cortlandt avenue, in the Bronx. I saw the cousin go into a house, and I watched outside until 2 o'clock in the morning; then I made up my mind that he had gone to bed, and I went to a place near by and waited until 5. Then I got back on watch, followed my man back downtown and saw him buy a ticket for Baltimore. I telephoned to headquarters I was going out of town and bought a ticket for Baltimore, too.

I was afraid I would be recognized. Then I wore no mustache, and I pulled a beard out of my pocket and put it on. You couldn't see my face at all after that, and my best friends wouldn't know me. In Baltimore my man went to Corcoran alley. Let me see, this was about 5 o'clock in the evening. Oh, I should have said before that Ceramello, I had heard, was going under the name of Fiori. Well, his cousin went into the house, and I stayed outside, so as not to scare them. The next day I went out at 5 o'clock to get the chief of police to send a man with me to arrest Ceramello, for I felt sure he was there. But, no, it was too early. The chief said I must wait until the detectives came in.

So I went back to the house alone and knocked at the door. "Come in!" some one said. I went in. There were three men and a woman on my left and a man leaning over a stove on my right. He answered the description I had of Ceramello. "Anybody sick here?" I asked. "I'm from the health board, and I hear you've got smallpox."

Then I turned to the man by the stove. "What's your name?" "Fiori." "Come here."

There was an ax standing against the wall, and as I spoke I kicked it away with my foot. Then I grabbed the man by the back of the neck and took him downstairs. On the way to the police station he confessed to having killed Brogno. I brought him back to New York, and he was tried and sent to prison for life, while Carboni was pardoned.

Four years later occurred the "barrel murder," one of the most important cases of Petrosino's career. It did not result in a conviction, but Petrosino always believed he had the right man. The body of a man with the head nearly severed was found in 1902 in a barrel in a tenement on East Eleventh street, New York. There was nothing to show his identity, and it looked at the outset like an impossible case. But Petrosino had a rather distinct recollection of the face of the dead man, and he couldn't get rid of the impression that he had seen it somewhere. Finally he fixed the time and place, recalling him as having attended a trial of a counterfeiter. Giuseppe Diprimo, in the federal court a year or so before. So Petrosino went to Sing Sing to interview Diprimo.

As soon as he saw a photograph of the dead man Diprimo exclaimed, "That's my brother," adding that he had seen him at the prison recently with Tomaso Petto. This man Petto was arrested because he knew Diprimo, because he lived in Buffalo and because a pair of gloves found in the barrel bore the name of a Buffalo store. Then the counterfeiter told the detective that his brother had carried a watch which he recalled bore some deep scratches "on the neck." There the clues seemed to end.

Back to New York came Petrosino. The pawnshops were raked over, and Diprimo's watch was found, with its scratches "on the neck." More, it was learned that Tomaso Petto had pawned the watch. Then Petto was rearrested, and the pawn ticket for the watch was found in his possession. But, though Petto was held in prison for eight months, the necessary corroborative evidence was lacking. The police were morally sure of their man, but had to consent to his discharge. It is interesting to note that among the men arrested on suspicion in this case were three who, it was learned later, were "wanted" in Italy for murder.

As an example of Petrosino's watchfulness when in pursuit of a criminal the story of Paulo Rondo, who shot and killed his wife in Little Italy in New York six years ago, may be cited. Petrosino tracked the murderer, who was shielded by his countrymen, to a little village on the outskirts of Long Island City and located him in a house on the ground floor of which was a grocery store. All attempts to get at the murderer proved unavailing. The detective climbed a convenient tree and, hidden by the foliage, kept a watchful eye on the house. He spent a most uncomfortable night, but was rewarded at daylight by seeing a wagon drive up to the door. A large bundle was carried from the house by several men and carefully deposited in the wagon.

Petrosino came down from the tree and as the wagon started away grabbed the tailboard and, seizing the bundle, dragged it to the ground. The covering burst, and up sprang the murderer. A desperate fight ensued. Captor and captive rolled over and over on the ground, the friends of the murderer crowding around and cheering the man they had sought to conceal. They were about to interfere when Detective Sergeant Krauch, who had also been watching, appeared with a revolver in each hand. Then the crowd fell back, the subdued murderer was put into the wagon from which he had been dragged, and in the vehicle brought for his flight he was taken to the nearest police station. He explained to eleven years in Sing Sing.

Petrosino could fight as well as "sleuth." This he proved when, on March 30, 1896, he arrested Giuseppe Guillano on a charge of grand larceny. Guillano had enticed a homeward bound fellow countryman, Antonio Sperduto by name, to a dive and had given him knockout drops. A week's search located the guilty man in a house on Park street, in New York. The pair wrestled and rolled down the stairs from the third floor to the street. Petrosino got his prisoner as far as a sewer opening, over which they fought for fully ten minutes. Finally the detective, with a viselike grip on the man's throat, forced his head into the sewer opening and swore he would hurl him into the sewer if he did not at once surrender. Not until the man became unconscious was he dragged from the sewer opening, and it was necessary to call an ambulance. Guillano, who secured only $102 by giving knockout drops to his victim, was sentenced to serve eleven years in Sing Sing.

NIAGARA FALLS AGAIN SILENT

For Second Time in the Memory of Man.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12.—The voice of Niagara is mute for the second time in the memory of man. The first time was late in February, when, following a severe northerly blow, the falls ran dry. Now, following a severe southwesterly, the river is frozen solid from bank to bank.

Unprecedented weather has brought about unprecedented conditions.

Last Wednesday the worst gale of the season and the most violent in the history of the weather bureau for April was recorded. Following the lakes and the channel of the Niagara, it left ruin in its wake. The solid ice field of Lake Erie was churned from end to end and piled in a huge conglomerated mass at the lower end of the lake.

MAKES BRIEF STOP AT SUEZ

Steamer With Roosevelt on Board Then Proceeds Down the Red Sea.

Suez, April 12.—The steamer Admiral, with ex-President Roosevelt on board, made a brief stop at Suez, then proceeded down the Red sea. The Admiral will make stops at Aden and Mogadiscio, on the east coast of Italian Somaliland.

In the trip through the canal the Admiral slowed up to permit a party to land at Ismailia, half way distant between the Red and Mediterranean seas. The landing party consisted of Kermit Roosevelt, Major Mearns, Edward Heller, zoologist, and J. Alden Loring. Their intention was to make a collection of bird specimens and proceed to Suez by train.

Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to deny vehemently an alleged interview with him which appeared in the Paris Journal, saying "I have not seen any representative of that paper and have made no statement to the press except that given out at Messina."

On the voyage through the canal, the Admiral passed the steamer City of Paris from Kurachee, crowded with British passengers. These massed on the steamer's decks and cheered the ex-president enthusiastically. A large teddy bear occupied a place on the bridge. Mr. Roosevelt answered the cheers by waving his hat ardently. He seemed to enjoy the experience very much.

FLORIDA NEGRO LYNCHED

Taken From Sheriff by Mob and Strung Up to a Tree.

Arcadia, Fla., April 12.—John Smith a negro who on Saturday dragged Miss Steel Ewing from her buggy two miles from Arcadia in an attempt at criminal assault, was taken from the sheriff and his deputies and hanged to a tree.

Miss Ewing, who had been to the city on a shopping tour, was returning to her home four miles from the city when the negro sprang into the buggy, seized Miss Ewing and dragged her into the bushes. The young woman begged and fought with the negro to let her go, offering him $100 in cash if he would accompany her home.

Miss Ewing's screams attracted Will Knowles and his brother. The negro ran. After taking Miss Ewing to her home, the men came to this city, spread the news, and blood hounds, followed by a posse of 300 men, were soon on the black's trail. The negro was found at a turpentine camp and taken before Miss Ewing who positively identified him. Sheriff Freeman and his deputies succeeded in placing Smith in jail, but fearing an attack attempted to spirit him out of Arcadia. They were met by an automobile party, held up and forced to give up the prisoner.

The negro pleaded for mercy, but the crowd carried him to the edge of the city where they strung him up to a tree.

Thieves Steal a Locomotive.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., April 12.—Thieves stole a locomotive on the New Haven railroad at Hopewell and after running it ten miles abandoned it when the steam gave out. The stalled locomotive tied up trains until more steam could be generated. The thieves escaped.

Murderer Attempts Suicide.

Cleveland, April 12.—Harry Holden, twenty-two years old, convicted of the double murder of Barney and Julius Jacobs, pawnbrokers, here last December, attempted to hang himself in his cell in the county jail. Holden was rescued by a deputy sheriff barely in time to save his life.

Young Woman Attempts Suicide.

St. Paul, April 12.—Miss Minnie Neuenfeldt, twenty years of age, drank two ounces of carbolic acid in her room. She was found in great agony by Mrs. F. B. Mellon, with whom the young woman had been boarding for some time. The motive for the suicide is supposed to be a love affair.

Hitchcock to Be Buried in St. Louis.

St. Louis, April 12.—The body of Ethan Allen Hitchcock, former secretary of the interior, has arrived here from Washington, where he died Friday. After services in the Second Presbyterian church the body will be buried in Belle Fontaine cemetery.

FAMOUS ACTRESS IS DEAD

Modjeska Dies at Her Home in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 9.—Mme. Helena Modjeska, the famous Polish tragedienne and one of the most noted actresses of the American stage, died at her island home at Bay City, Orange county, at the age of sixty-five, after an illness of about two months. For several days she had been unconscious and her death was almost hourly expected. Brights disease, complicated with heart trouble, was the immediate cause of death.

Gathered around the bedside of the noted actress when she passed away were Count Bozenta, husband of Mme. Modjeska; Ralph Modjeska and his wife, a son and daughter-in-law of Chicago, and Dr. J. C. Boyd, the family physician.

Count Bozenta, husband of Madame Modjeska, talked before her death of the reasons for the coming of himself and his wife with others from Poland in 1876. Because of his political writings he was exiled from Poland, and Madame Modjeska was, by imperial ukase debarred from the Polish stage.

Following the publication of a paper read by Madame Modjeska at the world's fair in Chicago, which had to do with Russian-Polish politics and the former ukase of the czar, a further order was issued barring Modjeska from Russian possessions.

It is believed by Count Bozenta, however, that there will be no hindrance to his mission to bury the body of the famous actress in Poland.

CANNON SHELL KILLS BOY

Relic of the Civil War Explodes Near Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., April 9.—While playing with an old cannon shell in the yard of his father's home near Ellenwood, thirteen miles south of Atlanta, Wayne Hightower, ten years old, was fatally injured when the shell exploded. Ing Bowden, eighteen years old, was slightly injured. The Hightower youth died. The cannon shell was picked up on the field where the battle of Atlanta was fought.

MORE WRECKAGE IS FOUND

Appears Certain That Tug and Crew Are Lost.

Cleveland, April 10.—The finding of additional pieces of wreckage from the missing tug George A. Floss, which disappeared in the storm on Lake Erie Wednesday, has practically dispelled all belief that the tug is afloat. Although scores of people have searched the beach in the vicinity where the wreckage was found and many boats have sought the missing crew on the lake, not a body has been recovered.

Relatives of the missing men and owners of the boat have given up all hope of seeing any of the crew alive. The crew and passengers consisted of seven men, according to the latest report. They were Captain William Barry, John Daily, Fred Gilboa, Peck MacKenzie, Frank Wescher, John O'Donnell, Joseph Martin, Henry Anderson and a boy by the name of Campbell. With the exception of Wescher, whose home is in Erie, the missing men lived in Cleveland.

There is little doubt but the boat was wrecked somewhere east of Cleveland. The last time it was seen it was fifteen miles northeast of the city. The sixty-mile gale was blowing from the northwest which undoubtedly drove it toward the shore.

KILLED IN THE ASSEMBLY

Direct Nominations as Recommended by Governor Hughes.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—Direct nominations as recommended by Governor Hughes received their death blow in the assembly, at least so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. By a vote of 112 to 28, after a debate lasting most of the day, the assembly decided to sustain the adverse report of the judiciary committee, which, with two dissenting votes out of twelve, had registered its disapproval of the measure. Assemblyman Green, introducer of the bill, with Assemblyman Klein, submitted a minority report. Seventy-five Republicans and thirty-seven Democrats voted by indirect action against the bill, while eighteen Republicans and ten Democrats voted for it.

While the bill was being defeated in the assembly Governor Hughes was on his way to Rochester to speak on direct nominations at a meeting there. Already there is speculation whether there is a possibility of the legislature being called back in extraordinary session by the governor because the assembly did not vote directly on the bill, but upon a motion to adopt the report of a committee.

CROKER ON PROHIBITION

Former Tammany Chieftain Says It Will Drive the Rich Abroad.

New York, April 9.—Commenting on the wave of prohibition legislation sweeping over the country, Richard Croker predicted that this course, if persisted in, would drive those Americans who had amassed fortunes abroad, where more liberal views prevailed.

"Europe," said he, "can give us points on personal liberty. Here we stopped horse racing, one of the grandest sports there is. We class it as a crime. We legislate as to what and when a man shall drink. The whole question will resolve itself to this: We'll make our money here, but will go to Europe to enjoy it."

Speaking of the president, whom he met in Washington, Mr. Croker said: "He is a fine, big, splendid, whole-souled man, genial and smart. He'll be more than equal to any emergency this country may have to face. He is there with the poise and the brains, backed by plenty of physical strength."

FAMILY QUARREL IS FATAL

One Man Killed and Two Other Men Wounded.

Olive Hill, Ky., April 9.—Lewis Bellew was shot and killed, his brother Curtis Bellew was shot in the back and probably fatally injured, and John Atkins, a relative, was shot in the hip in a family quarrel with Charles Lee and his son, Walter Lee, at Curtis Bellew's home at Fultz, in an isolated part of this county.

Curtis Bellew and his wife, who is Charles Lee's daughter, had separated and trouble arose over division of their property. Charles Lee surrendered, but Walter Lee is still at large.

As a Family Medicine

Lots of suffering would be avoided and much serious disease prevented if every family did as the writer of this letter suggests.

He has found out from experience with many medicines that there is nothing so good as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as a family medicine for biliousness and constipation. Such diseases as Bright's disease, diabetes and appendicitis almost invariably arise from neglect to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels regular.

This emphasizes the wisdom of keeping Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills constantly at hand.

Mr. WM. PALARDY, 146 Summer St., Central Falls, R. I., writes: "I think Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills most excellent as a cure for biliousness and constipation. We would not think of being without them in the house as a family medicine. I have used many medicines but none ever suited me as well."

Atlantic, Ia., April 12.—On opening the door of his chicken house Henry Helkin, a well known farmer living near Wiota, was horrified to find the body of his six-year-old son hanging from the roost. The position of the boy's body indicated that while playing he had climbed upon the roost and had either fallen or attempted to jump off. In doing so his coat caught and he was strangled to death.

NOTABLE EXPLOITS OF PETROSINO.

New York's Famous Sleuth, Martyr to the Black Hand.

DARING AND SKILL RECALLED

Cases in Which He Proved Both in Great Emergencies—An Example of
His Watchfulness—Desperate Fight
With a Thief.

Joseph Petrosino, the detective lieutenant who was recently assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, was the head of what is known as the Italian squad of the New York police department and one of the principal organizers of it. He was the man most feared by Italian criminals classed under the name of Black Hand and was sent to Italy to carry out a plan which was suggested to Commissioner Bingham nearly a year ago by a special agent whom the commissioner had hired to propose ways and means of stemming the tide of Italian and Sicilian crime in New York city.

In person short and stocky, with broad shoulders and muscles like steel cords, Petrosino was physically equipped for the rough work which it often became necessary for him to do. He had more than a fighter's body. He had the mind of a student. In the hundreds of cases which he handled he had used more frequently for his trained brain than for his ready hands.

Joseph Petrosino was born in 1860 in the province of Salerno, in Italy. He came to the United States when he was a boy of fifteen years and started his New York career by selling newspapers at Broome street and the Bowery. He was graduated as a newsboy and became an employee of the Galo brothers, who then held a city contract as scow trimmers. Through this channel he drifted into the street cleaning squad. In those days the street cleaning was done under the jurisdiction of the police department, and so it came about that the young Italian came under the eagle eye of Inspector Alexander Williams, the original "czar of the Tenderloin" and the right arm of Inspector Thomas Byrnes. Inspector Williams lifted Petrosino out of the street cleaning squad and on Oct. 9, 1883, made him a member of the uniformed police force. He served in uniform until he became a regular member of the central detective bureau, in 1895, where he scored his most notable achievements.

It is difficult to select from the long list of cases Petrosino has handled those best showing his methods and instancing his success. The Brogno murder, at Baxter and Leonard streets, New York, in July, 1898, will perhaps serve as a good example. Natalo Brogno was found, unconscious, suffering from a stab wound in the back. Over him stood Angelo Carboni, who was in the act of kicking Brogno when the police arrived. It was learned that Carboni, Carboni and a man named Ceramello had quarreled in a saloon on Leonard street a while before, but Carboni was apparently the murderer. Indeed, the police, at his trial, testified that Brogno had identified him as his assailant, and Carboni was convicted and sentenced to death.

Petrosino was not satisfied, and this is what he did, related in his own words:

After the conviction—I hadn't had much to do with the case—I happened to hear of a boy and a watchman who had seen the fight. Some friends told me these two had admitted this. Their story was that Brogno had quarreled first with Ceramello, who was Carboni's father-in-law, but that Brogno first came to blows with Carboni. Brogno knocked Carboni down. As Brogno bent forward from the force of the blow Ceramello stole up behind him and stabbed him in the back. Ceramello then ran away. Carboni didn't see the stabbing, but got up as Brogno fell and was kicking him when the police came.

I couldn't get these witnesses to repeat their story, so I went to the district attorney, who said I'd better go into the case thoroughly. So I started out to get Ceramello. I got trace of him in Jersey City, but he got away ahead of me. I followed him to Philadelphia, then to Millerton, in Delaware, every time just too late. Next I heard he was in Montreal, so to Canada I went. In Montreal I heard Ceramello had gone to Nova Scotia. I missed him there, too, and followed his trail back to New York. There I lost all trace of him.

One day, nearly a month after I first went after Ceramello, I was standing at Elizabeth and Mott streets when I saw him. He was with me, but he didn't see me. So I trailed him up to Cortlandt avenue, in the Bronx. I saw the cousin go into a house, and I watched outside until 2 o'clock in the morning; then I made up my mind that he had gone to bed, and I went to a place near by and slept until 5. Then I got back on watch, followed my man back downtown and saw him buy a ticket for Baltimore. I telephoned to headquarters I was going out of town and bought a ticket for Baltimore too.

I was afraid I would be recognized. Then I wore no mustache, and I pulled a beard out of my pocket and put it on. You couldn't see my face at all after that, and my best friends wouldn't know me. In Baltimore my man went to Corcoran alley. Let me see, this was about 5 o'clock in the evening. Oh, I should have said before that Ceramello, I had heard, was going under the name of Fiori. Well, his cousin went into the house, and I stayed outside, so as not to scare them. The next day I went out at 5 o'clock to get the chief of police to send a man with me to arrest Ceramello, for I felt sure he was there. But, no; it was too early. The chief said I must wait until the detectives came in.

So I went back to the house alone and knocked at the door.

"Come in!" some one said. I went in. There were three men and a woman on my left and a man leaning over a stove on my right. He answered the description I had of Ceramello.

"Anybody sick here?" I asked. "I'm from the health board, and I hear you've got smallpox."

Then I turned to the man by the stove. "What's your name?" "Fiori." "Come here."

There was an ax standing against the wall, and as I spoke I kicked it away with my foot. Then I grabbed the man by the back of the neck and took him downstairs. On the way to the police station he confessed to having killed Brogno. I brought him back to New York, and he was tried and sent to prison for life, while Carboni was pardoned.

Four years later occurred the "barrel murder," one of the most important cases of Petrosino's career. It did not result in a conviction, but Petrosino always believed he had the right man.

The body of a man with the head nearly severed was found in 1902 in a barrel in a tenement on East Eleventh street, New York. There was nothing to show his identity, and it looked at the outset like an impossible case. But Petrosino had a rather distinct recollection of the face of the dead man, and he couldn't get rid of the impression that he had seen it somewhere. Finally he fixed the time and place, recalling him as having attended a trial of a counterfeiter, Giuseppe Diprimo, in the federal court a year or so before. So Petrosino went to Sing Sing to interview Diprimo.

As soon as he saw a photograph of the dead man Diprimo exclaimed, "That's my brother," adding that he had seen him at the prison recently with Tomaso Petto. This man Petto was arrested because he knew Diprimo, because he lived in Buffalo and because a pair of gloves found in the barrel bore the name of a Buffalo store. Then the counterfeiter told the detective that his brother had carried a watch which he recalled bore some deep scratches "on the neck." There the clues seemed to end.

Back to New York came Petrosino. The pawnshops were raked over, and Diprimo's watch was found, with its scratches "on the neck." More, it was learned that Tomaso Petto had pawned the watch. Then Petto was rearrested, and the pawn ticket for the watch was found in his possession. But, though Petto was held in prison for eight months, the necessary corroborative evidence was lacking. The police were morally sure of their man, but had to consent to his discharge. It is interesting to note that among the men arrested on suspicion in this case were three who, it was learned later, were "wanted" in Italy for murder.

As an example of Petrosino's watchfulness when in pursuit of a criminal the story of Paulo Rondo, who shot and killed his wife in Little Italy in New York six years ago, may be cited. Petrosino tracked the murderer, who was sheld by his countrymen, to a little village on the outskirts of Long Island City and located him in a house on the ground floor of which was a grocery store. All attempts to get at the murderer proved unavailing. The detective climbed a convenient tree and, hidden by the foliage, kept a watchful eye on the house. He spent a most uncomfortable night, but was rewarded at daylight by seeing a wagon drive up to the door. A large bundle was carried from the house by several men and carefully deposited in the wagon.

Petrosino came down from the tree and as the wagon started away grabbed the tailboard and, seizing the bundle, dragged it to the ground. The covering burst, and up sprang the murderer. A desperate fight ensued. Captor and captive rolled over and over on the ground, the friends of the murderer crowding around and cheering the man they had sought to conceal. They were about to interfere when Detective Sergeant Krauch, who had also been watching, appeared with a revolver in each hand. Then the crowd fell back, the subdued murderer was put into the wagon from which he had been dragged, and in the vehicle brought for his flight he was taken to the nearest police station. He expiated to eleven years in Sing Sing.

Petrosino could fight as well as "sleuth." This he proved when, on March 30, 1896, he arrested Giuseppe Gulliano on a charge of grand larceny. Gulliano had enticed a homeward bound fellow countryman, Antonio Sperduto by name, to a dive and had given him knockout drops. A week's search located the guilty man in a house on Park street, in New York. The pair wrestled and rolled down the stairs from the third floor to the street.

Petrosino got his prisoner as far as a sewer opening, over which they fought for fully ten minutes. Finally the detective, with a viselike grip on the man's throat, forced his head into the sewer opening and swore he would hurl him into the sewer if he did not at once surrender. Not until the man became unconscious was he dragged from the sewer opening, and it was necessary to call an ambulance. Gulliano, who secured only $102 by giving knockout drops to his victim, was sentenced to serve eleven years in Sing Sing.

FLORIDA NEGRO LYNCHED

Taken From Sheriff by Mob and Strung Up to a Tree.

Arcadia, Fla., April 12.—John Smith, a negro who on Saturday dragged Miss Steel Ewing from her buggy two miles from Arcadia in an attempt at criminal assault, was taken from the sheriff and his deputies and hanged to a tree.

Miss Ewing, who had been to the city on a shopping tour, was returning to her home four miles from the city when the negro sprang into the buggy, seized Miss Ewing and dragged her into the bushes. The young woman begged and fought with the negro to let her go, offering him $100 in cash if he would accompany her home.

Miss Ewing's screams attracted Will Knowles and his brother. The negro ran. After taking Miss Ewing to her home, the men came to this city, spread the news, and blood hounds, followed by a posse of 300 men, were soon on the black's trail. The negro was found at a turpentine camp and taken before Miss Ewing who positively identified him. Sheriff Freeman and his deputies succeeded in placing Smith in jail, but fearing an attack attempted to spirit him out of Arcadia. They were met by an automobile party, held up and forced to give up the prisoner.

The negro pleaded for mercy, but the crowd carried him to the edge of the city where they strung him up to a tree.

Thieves Steal a Locomotive.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., April 12.—Thieves stole a locomotive on the New Haven railroad at Hopewell and after running it ten miles abandoned it when the steam gave out. The stalled locomotive tied up trains until more steam could be generated. The thieves escaped.

Murderer Attempts Suicide.

Cleveland, April 12.—Harry Holden, twenty-two years old, convicted of the double murder of Barney and Julius Jacobs, pawnbrokers, here last December, attempted to hang himself in his cell in the county jail. Holden was rescued by a deputy sheriff barely in time to save his life.

Young Woman Attempts Suicide.

St. Paul, April 12.—Miss Minnie Neuenfeldt, twenty years of age, drank two ounces of carbolic acid in her room. She was found in great agony by Mrs. F. B. Mellon, with whom the young woman had been boarding for some time. The motive for the suicide is supposed to be a love affair.

FAMOUS ACTRESS IS DEAD

Modjeska Dies at Her Home in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 9.—Mme. Helena Modjeska, the famous Polish tragedienne and one of the most noted actresses of the American stage, died at her island home at Bay City, Orange county, at the age of sixty-five, after an illness of about two months. For several days she had been unconscious and her death was almost hourly expected. Brights disease, complicated with heart trouble, was the immediate cause of death.

Gathered around the bedside of the noted actress when she passed away were Count Bozenta, husband of Mme. Modjeska; Ralph Modjeska and his wife, a son and daughter-in-law of Chicago, and Dr. J. C. Boyd, the family physician.

Count Bozenta, husband of Madame Modjeska, talked before her death of the reasons for the coming of himself and his wife with others from Poland in 1876. Because of his political writings he was exiled from Poland, and Madame Modjeska was, by imperial ukase debarred from the Polish stage.

Following the publication of a paper read by Madame Modjeska at the world's fair in Chicago, which had to do with Russian-Polish politics and the former ukase of the czar, a further order was issued barring Modjeska from Russian possessions.

It is believed by Count Bozenta, however, that there will be no hindrance to his mission to bury the body of the famous actress in Poland.

CANNON SHELL KILLS BOY

Relic of the Civil War Explodes Near Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., April 9.—While playing with an old cannon shell in the yard of his father's home near Ellenwood, thirteen miles south of Atlanta, Wayne Hightower, ten years old, was fatally injured when the shell exploded. Ing Bowden, eighteen years old, was slightly injured. The Hightower youth died. The cannon shell was picked up on the field where the battle of Atlanta was fought.

MORE WRECKAGE IS FOUND

Appears Certain That Tug and Crew
Are Lost.

Cleveland, April 10.—The finding of additional pieces of wreckage from the missing tug George A. Floss, which disappeared in the storm on Lake Erie Wednesday, has practically dispelled all belief that the tug is afloat. Although scores of people have searched the beach in the vicinity where the wreckage was found and many boats have sought the missing crew on the lake, not a body has been recovered.

Relatives of the missing men and owners of the boat have given up all hope of seeing any of the crew alive.

The crew and passengers consisted of seven men, according to the latest report. They were Captain William Barry, John Dally, Fred Gilboa, Peck MacKenzie, Frank Weschler, John O'Donnell, Joseph Martin, Henry Anderson and a boy by the name of Campbell. With the exception of Weschler, whose home is in Erie, the missing men lived in Cleveland.

There is little doubt but the boat was wrecked somewhere east of Cleveland. The last time it was seen it was fifteen miles northeast of the city. The sixty-mile gale was blowing from the northwest which undoubtedly drove it toward the shore.

KILLED IN THE ASSEMBLY

Direct Nominations as Recommended by Governor Hughes.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—Direct nominations as recommended by Governor Hughes received their death blow in the assembly, at least so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. By a vote of 112 to 28, after a debate lasting most of the day, the assembly decided to sustain the adverse report of the judiciary committee, which, with two dissenting votes out of twelve, had registered its disapproval of the measure. Assemblyman Green, introducer of the bill, with Assemblyman Klein, submitted a minority report. Seventy-five Republicans and thirty-seven Democrats voted by indirect action against the bill, while eighteen Republicans and ten Democrats voted for it.

While the bill was being defeated in the assembly Governor Hughes was on his way to Rochester to speak on direct nominations at a meeting there. Already there is speculation whether there is a possibility of the legislature being called back in extraordinary session by the governor because the assembly did not vote directly on the bill, but upon a motion to adopt the report of a committee.

CROKER ON PROHIBITION

Former Tammany Chieftain Says It
Will Drive the Rich Abroad.

New York, April 9.—Commenting on the wave of prohibition legislation sweeping over the country, Richard Croker predicted that this course, if persisted in, would drive those Americans who had amassed fortunes abroad, where more liberal views prevailed.

"Europe," said he, "can give us points on personal liberty. Here we stopped horse racing, one of the grandest sports there is. We class it as a crime. We legislate as to what and when a man shall drink. The whole question will resolve itself to this: We'll make our money here, but will go to Europe to enjoy it."

Speaking of the president, whom he met in Washington, Mr. Croker said: "He is a fine, big, splendid, whole-souled man, genial and smart. He'll be more than equal to any emergency this country may have to face. He is there with the poise and the brains, backed by plenty of physical strength."

FAMILY QUARREL IS FATAL

One Man Killed and Two Other Men Wounded.

Olive Hill, Ky., April 9.—Lewis Bellew was shot and killed, his brother Curtis Bellew was shot in the back and probably fatally injured, and John Atkins, a relative, was shot in the hip in a family quarrel with Charles Lee and his son, Walter Lee, at Curtis Bellew's home at Fultz, in an isolated part of this county.

Curtis Bellew and his wife, who is Charles Lee's daughter, had separated and trouble arose over division of their property. Charles Lee surrendered, but Walter Lee is still at large.

As a Family Medicine

Lots of suffering would be avoided and much serious disease prevented if every family did as the writer of this letter suggests.

He has found out from experience with many medicines that there is nothing so good as Dr.
A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as a family medicine for biliousness and constipation.

Such diseases as Bright's disease, diabetes and appendicitis almost invariably arise from neglect to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels regular.

This emphasizes the wisdom of keeping Dr.
A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills constantly at hand.

Mr. Wm. PALARDY, 146 Summer St., Central Falls, R. I., writes:—"I think Dr. A. W.
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills most excellent is a cure for biliousness and constipation. We would not think of being without them in any house as a family medicine. I have used many medicines but none ever suited my case so well."

Three Iowa Children Run Down Near Dubuque.

Dubuque, Ia., April 12.—The Illinois Central "Flyer" struck and instantly killed Anna, Mabel and Ruby, aged seven, eight and fourteen, respectively, daughters of Fred Foldorf, four miles west of here. The girls were walking on the track toward the train. Because of a high wind they had their heads down and did not see the train.

Boy Hanged on Hen Roost.

Atlantic, Ia., April 12.—On opening the door of his chicken house Henry Heikin, a well known farmer living near Wiota, was horrified to find the body of his six-year-old son hanging from the roost. The position of the boy's body indicated that while playing he had climbed upon the roost and had either fallen or attempted to jump off. In doing so his coat caught and he was strangled to death.
